Clive,

This is just a quick follow-up to again thank you for coming to Santa Fe and presenting at the LSI NRD Conference and to thank CWAG/WAGLAC for making that possible! I think the conference was really terrific, and I hope you and your members agree.

As you know, I was emailing with a couple folks separately and thought it may be good to just forward this information on to all. In following up on all of the discussions on PFAS and AFFF, I wanted to let you all know that I would recommend that you take a look at this recent video and website:

<https://www.cnb.com/2019/07/12/new-drinking-water-crisis--stemming-from-us-military-bases-pfas-contamination.html>

I think it's a nice summary and background piece on the PFAS and AFFF problems nationally. The site also has great maps and other information. The video is about 20 minutes, but it is really well done, captures the big picture, and is worth the watch. Also, if you'd like to watch the Bilott story, there is a documentary called "The Devil We Know" available on Netflix, which tells the entire story of the DuPont site in Parkersburg, West Virginia. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7cCkADnhRqk>. It's compelling.

Thank you all again for attending the NRD Conference. I hope you enjoyed it and a couple of days in Santa Fe.

Bill
